CATERHAM ACADEMY CHAMPIONSHIP

ACADEMY AVALANCHE SPEEDS INTO NORTH WALES

PHOTOS: GRAHAM HOLBON

It's a big weekend for the moobob Caterham Academy: Their first with not one, but two races in a weekend.

George Hawkins arrives on the island fresh from a popular victory at Thruxton, after he became the first driver to get the better of championship leader Max Richardson. Kyle Townend came desperately close at Brands, but was pipped at the line.

But don't count Richardson out yet. He still finished second at Thruxton and is the only driver to have had a podium at all three rounds. Hawkins may have won the last race, but he's currently fourth in the table while Townend is down in sixth. With no fewer than seven podium finishers in three events, it is hard to predict who might add to their tally this weekend, or who might make their first appearance.

In points terms at least, the yellow car of Matt Fox is Richardson's nearest rival and he only just missed out on a second podium at Thruxton, despite a relatively lowly start position. But the standout performance came from Nick Tomadakis, finishing third from sixth on the grid. Tomadakis took fifth at Brands having started in ninth, so if he can improve on his qualifying, we expect a podium, if not in Saturday's race, then almost certainly in Sunday's.

However, the driver with the most local support this weekend will surely be Welshman, Richard Davies. The red car has been consistently quick but has yet to make it back to the podium since the sprint.

With so many drivers finding their speed, it is getting harder to predict the podium, but undoubtedly Richardson, Hawkins and Townend and Ben Oliver will undoubtedly be at the sharp end. But if we wanted to roll the dice and predict winners, this weekend could belong to Tomadakis and Davies...

The Caterham Academy is a unique series exclusively for rookie drivers. An all-inclusive 'introduction to motorsport' package, it includes a Caterham road-legal race car, race licence, technical support, the racing itself and perhaps most importantly, the guidance of the Caterham team at every stage.

CATERHAM ROADSPORT CHAMPIONSHIP

ALL TO PLAY IN BATTLE FOR SUPREMACY IN ROADSPORT

PHOTOS: GRAHAM HOLBON

The Bilstein Caterham Roadsport Championship is effectively year two of the Academy with nearly every driver on the grid having competed in the Academy last year. The Roadsport car is a simple development of the previous year's Academy car, with track-focussed Toyo R888R tyres and a rear anti-roll bar, giving drivers progression in the machine as well as in the double-header race format.

With Caterham's last visit to Anglesey taking place in 2022, the circuit presents yet another new challenge for the class of Academy '24. Three rounds and three new circuits for the drivers competing in their second year in upgraded Roadsport spec.

So far this season we have had three winners from the four races. Pre-season favourite Scott Helme could only manage a single third place in the opening weekend's racing at Snetterton, with the Harris' brothers Charles and Will locking out the top two steps of the podium, taking a win and second-place each. However, the second weekend of racing belonged to Lancashire's Helme, defying Thruxton's ability to produce surprise winners by coming away with both victories from the weekend, despite starting the first race from 14th on the grid!

Brian Thornton has topped the qualifying sheets at both race weekends this year, but has lost out in the races. However, with each race that passes he is inching closer to the podium. Could this finally be his weekend?

Meanwhile, the Harris brothers sit in first and third place in the championship table, split by Helme, who has a healthy early season gap between himself and third placed Charles. But the older brother, a winner at Snetterton, had a lacklustre Thruxton finishing 7th and 8th. Was Snetterton a flash in the pan? We don't think so, but with Alastair Morton and perhaps more notably Dan Crawly, who picked up a brace of third place trophies at Thruxton, snapping at his heels, he will need to return to the lead battle if he wants to retain his championship podium position, let alone be fighting for the title.

CATERHAM 270R CHAMPIONSHIP

TITLE TUSSLE DEVELOPING IN CATERHAM 270R RANKS

PHOTOS: GRAHAM HOLBON

The EDGE Caterham Seven 270R Championship marks the third rung on the ladder for drivers moving up from Academy and Roadsport. And for the first time, they will be joined by experienced drivers coming in from other series or staying in Seven 270R for a second, third or even more years.

The Seven 270R progresses the Roadsport race car by changing from road to track suspension, plus the removal of the screen and lights to make it look at feel like the racing machine that it is.

After a clean sweep of wins at Snetterton, Caterham Graduates champion Ben Wheatley was expected to take to the top step again at Thruxton, especially after the CTS Motorsport driver bagged pole on Saturday morning. However, a red flag following Django Jones' unfortunate plunge into the tyre barrier, brought Saturday's encounter to a premature end, leaving Paul Oggelsby to take his first win in Seven 270R, having stepped up from the Academy.

Further luck was not on the RS Motorsport driver's side though, with Oggelsby failing to finish either of Sunday's races, leaving the way clear for another challenger from Academy 2024 to take the battle to Wheatley; Louis Darling, the youngest driver on the grid. After a bizarre accident at the troublesome chicane, the Safety Car brought the race to a close and Darling took his first Caterham win ahead of Wheatley. The pair were able to continue their battle uninterrupted in the weekend's third race, with Darling outpacing the more experienced driver to take victory by little more than two-tenths.

Wheatley still has a clear margin at the top of the table with Williams Motorsport's Darling some 34 points adrift and just one point ahead of Adam Kene himself. Between the pair sits Harvey Ashmore who is yet to trouble the podium this year, but has kept it clean and consistent. Keep an eye out for Nick Sampson. A newcomer to the podium, he has really found some pace in the step to Seven 270R and could be a contender.

CATERHAM 310R CHAMPIONSHIP

RACE IS ON IN THE FIGHT OF SEVEN 310R BRAGGING RIGHTS AT ANGLESEY

PHOTOS: GRAHAM HOLBON

The final evolution of the Academy car, the Seven 310R looks identical to the Seven 270R, but the change in name reflects the increase in power to weight ratio, as the power is pushed up to >150bhp and a limited-slip differential is added to allow it to be exploited to the full.

It may be a small grid, but it is a case of quality over quantity in the Vertex Caterham Seven 310R Championship, and it's a case of three wins and two second place finishes each so far for championship leader & double Caterham champion, Lars Hoffmann and triple Caterham champion Taylor O'Flanagan.

Despite podium equality, German driver Hoffmann currently has a six-point lead over his illustrious rival, thanks to the better 'non-podium' finish that each driver has scored. However, when drop scores come into play, the gap closes.

Behind the lead pair, several drivers have stepped up to the vacant podium position. Most notably amongst them, Phil Bianchi.

The #16 car started the year well and just improves with each round, taking a second place in Thruxton's last race. On current form, the Maltese driver is capable of usurping the current leaders for the top step.

This season has seen the introduction of a new challenge for these experienced drivers. The grids for the first two races are set by the first and second fastest times in qualifying, which will negate the 'lucky lap' advantage, frequently seen at high-speed slip-stream circuits like Thruxton.

For race 3, the result of the previous race is taken, but with up to the first 10 places, chosen at random, reversed. As the race two winner at both weekend's so far, Hoffmann has pulled the number out of the hat, pulling '10' out at Snetterton, much to his displeasure, demoting himself from first to tenth on the grid, only to spectacularly fight through to a win and fastest lap - demonstrating that this initiative lets the cream to the top.

With the drivers separated into Pro Am and Am, there's still much to play for further down the grid, with Harvey Lawrence leading the Am table ahead of Geoff Price.

CATERHAM SEVEN CHAMPIONSHIP UK

PREMIER PRIZE UP FOR GRABS IN CATERHAM RANKS

PHOTOS: GRAHAM HOLBON

The Dutch Barn Vodka Caterham Seven Championship UK is the pinnacle of both Caterham racing and club racing in the UK.

The fearsome Seven 420R race car may only wield 180bhp; but coupled with its feather weight, legendary handling and bespoke slick tyres, it is a match for the lap times of GT cars several times its price.

While the rest of the Caterham championships went to Thruxton, the premier series visited Brands Hatch to support the British Touring Car Championship in front of crowd of >30,000 spectators and treated them to a spectacular display of clean and close racing; so good that it even resulted in Martin Brundle name checking Caterham for entertaining and thrilling racing.

Sunday's third race, broadcast live, was an absolute nail-biter, with a five-way battle for the lead between the top five Pro Am drivers in the championship, eventually going the way of Harry Senior in a 0.017s win over Henry Heaton - many times a runner-up at this level.

Senior's comparatively whopping 0.055s win over Matt Armstrong earlier in the day cements his position at the top of the table, five points ahead of Armstrong, who took his first Seven Championship UK win in Saturday's race. Meanwhile, Matt's father, Justin Armstrong, made it a family affair and a very successful weekend, with two Am class wins from three at Brands, including a stunning defence against some of the Pro Am field in the first race of the weekend. Armstrong senior leads the Am battle by 14 points from Tom Eden. Armstrong senior was denied a third Am win by Jake Swann, who missed the first round of the year, so is some way down the table.

Meanwhile, pre-season favourites Harry Cook and Paul Donkin had a relatively frustrating weekend on the TOCA package. A single visit for Cook to the podium, followed by two fourth places, whilst Donkin came home fifth on all three occasions. Joint third, equal on points, both will be keen to make up ground to the lead pair this weekend and there's no doubting they have the speed and ability to do so.

FULL ENTRY FOR FIRST OF TWO ANGLESEY VISITS FOR CNC HEADS

PHOTOS: PS IMAGES

Today sees the first visit of the year to the picturesque Anglesey Circuit for the CNC Heads Sports and Saloon Car Championship. This year again we, at the North Western Centre of the BARC, are very grateful of having our loyal sponsor of seventeen years, CNC Heads, back for an 18th season.

In addition, Car Service Packs are back as a partner for a fourth season - thank you Graeme Laslett. The economic climate out there may be in trouble with prices ever rising but at the moment it does not seem to be affecting our competitors too much as we as we have an entry approaching 40.

The top three from Class A are all out this weekend to consolidate their positions. First of these, after a brace of wins at Oulton Park, is Simon Allaway in his Lotus Esprit Turbo. Long standing competitors Piers Grange, with his Ford Escort RSR, and Garry Wardle in his Audi A3 will be chasing Simon but perhaps Ric Wood in his Ford Capri GAA will have the best chance of challenging Simon for class honours.

Moving to Class B we have the perhaps more nimble and potentially quicker cars, and again the top three are out this weekend. At the previous meeting at Oulton, class honours were shared between the Locost 7 of Ben Roberts and the Darrian T90 of Deri Davies. Being more nimble these two with the addition of Bod Buckby, who had two class seconds at Oulton, Roddie Paterson and perhaps Connor and Alek Modro could challenge the larger engined cars for overall honours.

BMW drivers, Chris Roberts and Carl Bennett, will be attempting to consolidate their positions in the large capacity Modified Class D. The always quick, but perhaps not always reliable, Subaru Impreza of Oliver Thomas will be hoping to open his account for the season after missing the Oulton rounds. Current CNC Heads Champion, Steven Parker, in his Ford Fiesta will be hoping for a better haul of points than he had at Oulton in his quest to retain his title. Focus.

Moving to the smallest capacity Modified Class F, there is an increase in numbers and Helen Allen has some competition. This comes in the form of the Mini Cooper of Jonathan Lee, the Toyota Yaris T Sport of Errol Taylor and previous Class B competitor Robert Wakelin in his Honda Civic tuning for the road and track.
